WHAT form the future government of Brazil may take it is, of course, impossible to say at the present functure. We've heard that the revolution is at an end, but no inkling is wouchsafed as to the terms of the settlement nor even whether Marshal Prixoto and Admiral de Mello came out of the struggle scathless or a head short; or whether the conflict terminated in an isnominious compromise, If, however, the Brazilians, tired of at all. inglorious republican strife, should elect to return to imperialism, there is a promising young Prince at their disposal in Dom Pedro d'Alcanters, son of the Comissee d'Eu, the only child of the late Emperor Dom Pedro. The Shanghai native paper Shingao states that it has received news from Shoul to the effect that a conspiracy of some twenty-seven persons, belonging to the Min clan-the family new lo power -- has been exposed and the men arrested before their plans could be matured and brought into execution. The design was to set fire to the raleces on the 1st day of the Chinese New Year (6th February) and during the confusion that would arise, the conspirators were to kill the King of Corea and proclaim one of their own clan King in his stead.

WE understand that Mr. W. M. B. Arthur, first clerk at the Magistracy, will shortly take a trip dance of the season in the City Hall on Friday, to England in twelve months leave of absence, and that Mr. J. W. Jones, assistant meater at the Central School, will act as his locum tenens. Mr. Arthur has worked hard for many years in a trying position and has fairly carned a lengthy holiday; but what has become of Governor Robinson's grand scheme, brought forth with such a flourish of trumpets, of filling 'all vacant clerkships in the Government Service with Portuguese? Collapsed, of course, like a great many more of his Excellency's foolish notions, as the Telegraph at the time confidently predicted would be the case.

THE WATER SUPPLY.

For some time past considerable inconvenience has been caused throughout the colony owing to a scarcity of water, and matters reached a climax last Friday, when not a drop of water for domestic purposes was obtainable In many parts of the city. This state of things continued until this morning, when, in some districts at least, a very limited supply was turned on. After the notification issued by the Colonial Secretary that a full supply of water would be available from 6 to 10 a.m. on and after the 74th inst. the public had a right to expect the fulfilment of that promise, but, as above stated, su h has not been the case. From Monday morning, owing to there being only 15 feet of falsiy clear water left in the deepest part of the greatly vaunted Tytam reservoir, the outflow to the colony has been limited to two and a half inches above what is known as the six-foot gauge! As might be expected, the greatest inconvenience has been caused by this sudden though perhaps necessary action on the part of the Water Authority, and hundreds of taxpayers, chicily those who live west of Pottinger Street, are having to pay ten cents for every two buckets of water, delivered by coolies at their residences, and they have been doing so for the nest four days. A number of complaints having reached this office relative to the astounding action of the authorities in cutting off the supply of water to hundreds of residents, a representative of the Telegraph visited Tytam on Easter Monday to see, what the state, of affairs at the late lamented Mr. Price's 'white-clephant' might be. And it is well he did so, for now we know the worst—that unless there is a coplous rainfall within the current week the supply from Tytam will absolutely cease eight days hence. It would appear that instead of making the reservoir as large as it could have been made, the talented constructor failed to cut off several spits, which jut out from the shill-sides and partially fill up the area of the basin, and as a consequence Tytam holds only about two-thirds of the water which the massive dam could well contain with its walls. It would not be difficult to widen and deepen the reservoir during the dry season, but so far nothing has been done in this direction. There is a fine stream of spring water, affording virtually an inexhaustible supply (about three hundred feet below and bearing south-east from the foreman's residence at Tytam) which empties itself near Stanley, and which might without great trouble be utilised by pumping or other means,

Seeing that we cannot look forward with any degree of confidence to heavy rains for a month or so to come, the outlook for the general public, and especially for the Chinese, is anything but encouraging, and all we can do at the present juncture is appeal to the authorities to make a clean breast of the state of affairs, so that, whatever the situation, the public may comprehend it thoroughly and prepare for the inevitable. What we emphatically denounce is a makebelieve of a certain daily supply of water when, for some occult resson, there is next to no supply

JOHN GILPIN UP TO DATE.

The London Lyric Company, on returning to Hongkong (it is stated) will perform a new comic opera entitled "John Gilpin up to Date," the litte role to be filled by the Amateur Champlon Lilet of the Daily Press. Our esteemed contemporary has several tame lunatics in stock, but the one who attempts to write sporting and dramatic notes is the cake-scooper. Here is a specimen :--

"Upsilon " was a citizen: Of very small renown; For he was one of Granne's men. Id est an awful clown.

He used to write the "Sporting Notes" (So-called) for the Daily Press. Though we've known lots of billy-goats That would have bungled less.

Who could do more to vex His readers than "Unsilon" did. It only could be "X." For nobody could tell which one Of them was worse than tother.

But if there ever was a kid

To all appearance, "Upsilon" Must have been "X's" brother. (Before we've any further gone Here is a point to smile on :-The man himself says "Up Ceylon" When he ought to say "U-psellon.")

But as above remarked, these two

Were awful asses, truly: Who they were really no one knew Unless the Office Coolie. They both wrote for the Daily Press; They wrote a fearful lot.

What it all meant, no one could guesa, It was such tommy rot. However, it is not their screeds That caused this present verse; Tis not about their words, but deeds,

Which were a great deal worse. For 'tis a funny story, how One of them took a ride-Or rather, tried it on : but now He's sorry that he tried

This X., as we remarked before Was not of much renown In Hongkong city, any more Than in his native town.

But he's just had an escapade

Deserving to be told

As widely as the one that made John Gilpin famed of old. Now X.'s spouse said to her dear, "Though wedded we have been

"These forty weary years, yet we

"No holiday have seen. "To-morrow let us get two mokes "And go to Pok-fu-lum. "It would delight the country-folks,

"We'd make creation hum !" Then X. replied "I do admire "Of womankind but one, "And you are she, my dearest dear,

"Therefore it shall be done. "I am a famous sporting man, "As all the world doth know. "So Mr. Davy Kennedy "Will lend us mokes to go."

The ponies came, on Easter Day, Though X. was loath to ride Too much along a public way For fear he should be guyed. With all their fixings à la mode.

Brand-new, and spick-and-span, They started on the Bonham Road Right over Lap-sup-wan. But finding soon the path sloped down Beneath his well-shod feet. Poor X.'s pony galloped hard.

Which galled him in his seat, So "Fair and softly !" X. cried out, But it was all in value The pace increased at every shout In spite of curb and rein.

So stooping down, as needs he must, 🔻 Who cannot sit upright, He grabbed the mane with both his hands And yelled with all his might. The pony never in that sort

Had handled been before ; What thing upon his back had got? He wondered more and more. Away went X., for "necklor nought," Away, too, went his hat ; He little dreamed, when he set out. Of cojoying himself like that, John Gilpin, the original Of Cowper's fertile brain. Rode all the way from Islington To Ware and back again.

But this " John Glipin up to Date," . This poor misguided X. In fear of sharing such a fate Nossly "passed in his checks." Visions he saw, in his mind's eye, Fearfully flash before him: A horrid death he thought to die, A chill despair came o'er him. His vivid fancy took him far Past Stanley and Taltam.

On a steeplechase to D'Aguilar

And back by Shau-ki-wan.

Then, quick as thought, the poor man sought To terminate the ride-To do a flop from off the top Of the pony, and get inside. He ceased his cries, he closed his eyes, He cruelly clenched his testh, He breathed a prayer, flew up in the air-

Then down on the "blasted heath,". "Oh what a fall (or what sprawl) Was their, my countrymen ! If he'd been Kitts, he'd have blown to bits A prominent abdomen. ... But in this case, he fell on his face-And a brasen fage it is i-

With such a smish that gravel rash Now covers his comely phis. He punched a hole like a pudden bend With his head in the rocky ground ! The aforesald heath was miles beneath Another "blasting " sound,

They must, however, have shelf names entered in a Registry, and must always by biovided with registration papers, for which a fee of 25 cents will be charged. A special registry is to be opened for Chinese, who must register property over $10 in value. The provincial and district authorities are instructed to prepare complete lists of all the Chinese now living in their jurisdiction, and Chinese wishing to go from one district to another will have to show their papers, as under the law of 1870. Manila is still the only port of en'ry for Chinese, and all the former regulations as to immigration and return of immigrants remain in force except as to passports. In fact the only alteration is that registration papers are substituted for passports and everything else is unchanged.

LONDON, February 20th. The galleries of the House of Commons were crowded to-day in anticipation that Gladstone would attack the House of Lords owing to its late obstructive legislative tactics.

The Premier was loudly cheered when he entered. After answering a question by saying the Brazillan insurgents had not shown force enough to entitle them to recognition as insurgents, he moved to discharge the order of the Employers' Liability Bill, saying in a brief speech that a large proportion of the working classes were opposed to the Lords' amendments, therefore the Government had no option but to withdraw the bill. The Radicals, who had expected Gladstone to make an attack upon the Lords, showed their disaprointment as the speech progressed.

The Premier, in the mildest tones, argued simply against the "contrac ing-out" amendment. saying that from all the evidence presented he thought the working people and friendly societies objected to the Lords' provisions. The Government believed the working people to be the best judges in matters related to their own affairs. [cheers] and if the amendments were incorpo-. rated in the bill the workmen's security would. be impaired and they would be deprived of all the benefits of the bill.

Balfour, the Conservative leader, was also heartily cheered. He defended the Lords! amendments, claiming that the working people favored them. Balfour said he epresented an industrial constituency and had not received a single objection to the amendments. Both Unionists and Liberals were sent to the Commens by the working classes, upon whem both were dependent.

Replying to questions on the subject, A. J. Mundelle, president of the Board of Trade, said he was informed by agents of the stermship New York that she had not brought back from New York great numbers of Italian and Polish ellens who had been refused admission to the United States. The total number of people brought beck was eighty-five, who had been refused admission under the contract law, and those whose destination was unknown.

-Finally-the House, by a veto of 225 to & adopted Gladstone's motion, and amid toud laughter the bill was withdrawn. The House rejected all important agnerdments made by the Lords to the Parish Connells Bill and accepted the unimportant amendments. It then adjourned notil Saturday. ROME, Feb. u irv 21st. At 3:15 o'clock this alternoon Signor Sonnino, Minister of Finance, rose on the right hand of Premier Crispl, in the presence of an intensely intere ted and crowded house, to make a statement concerning the financial condition of Italy. Two hours and a half later he had put the whole situation before the House.

Baron Sonning was listened to with the closest attention. He announced that the deficit for the fiscal year was 155 000,000 lire, which he said was likely to be sensibly increased in coming years unless remedial measures; were immediately applied.

He then submitted a number of proposals. which consisted of new taxes and economics in the administration of the various departments. Sonnino explained the project of Issuing inconvertible State notes and announced that the Government would issue also 20 000 000 lire of a new nickel coin of the value of 20 centimes. A royal d cree increasing the import duty on wheat to 7} francs was received by the Chamber with marked approval, but owing to the large number of new taxes the Finance Minister's statement created a hostile impression upon the opposition. Scarcely had Sonnino scated himself when Signer Imbriant rose and shouted "Diminish the civil list !"

The House was taken aback when Signor Sonntno, who spoke in an earnest, quiet manner, ended with the words. "God save our dear country." This frank admission of the seriousness of the situation produced a profound impression on the members of the Chamber. WASHINGTON, February 21st.

THE PHRA YOT TRIAL IN BANGROK.

ACQUITTAL OF THE ACCUSED.

The investigation of the charges against Phra Yot was concluded on March 17th at the Slam Royal Court of Justice Bangkok. At the appointed hour, I p.m., the French Representative and the Counsel on each side were present, and among the specia ors were Mr. J. G. Scott, H.B.M. Charge d'Affaires, and Mrs. Scott. Mr. Beckett, Mr. Nowmann, Chevaller Keun de Hoogerwoord, Mr. Wiede, Chevaller Xavier, Luang Chamnong, Canon Greenstock, Dr. Dunlap, Mrs. Hays, Mrs. Collins, Miss Loftus, Phys Woot, and others.

A delay of nearly an hour occurred before the judges appeared. The President (Prince Bidili then conferred for a few moments with M. Ducos, after which he took i is sent on the beach. The Recorder stated that Phra Yot was too ill to attend, being unconscious. Mr. V. Page confirmed this, having visited him the previous day. The President thought it desirable that the accused should be present during the delivery of the judgment, but as neither side objected he would proceed. THE JUDGMENT. After expressing the thanks of the Court to the counsel on either side, and to the Recorder for their assistance, the President stated that he and his colleagues had given the case the fullest and most careful consideration: and it was to be hoped that their decision would be accepted as final. He then referred to the position occupied by Phra Yot at Kammoun previous to M. Luce's arrival, and commented upon the terms under which he evacuated the province. Phra Yot, he said, formally and properly protested against his expulsion, and was then sent away under M. Grosgurin's escort. At Kleng-chek Grosgurin arrested Luang Anuraks, and refused to release him even when told that he was committing a breach of the treaty. Then Phra Yot obtained reinforcements. and set to work to obtain Anuraks' release. patient and careful review of the evidence given on either side showed that in the fight which ensued the French and the Slamese suffered pretty equally, because, according to M. Capt, Grosguvin had refused to restore the property belonging to Phra Yot's party before Outhene was reached, and that it was in the house when the fight began, and the fire broke out. The accused was not likely to take measures which would involve the destruction of his own goods, by ordering the house to be set on fire, and there was no clear evidence of any subsequent losting, as Boon Chan had failed to identify a single Samese as having taken part in such. Therefore the Court held that in the fight Phra Yot acted entirely on, the defensive, as he ordered his men to fire when some had already been killed, and retreat was not only out of the ques'i in but was expressly forbidden by Luang Wichit's orders, whilst as regarded the charges of incendiarism and sobbery they fell to the ground. In every act committed by him Phra Yot was completely justified, and he was of robbery the Court had to bear in mind that

The President asked if either side had any objections to enter? Luang Soonthorn replied in the negative. The Court then rove. - Stam Observer.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Linching, 7th March, 1894. This has been an unusually mild winter. Boats on the Wel river stopped running for only a few days. Being a large river port, there has always been a likin barrier here which has done a fat business for all the large and small officials connected with it. This year we hear that the Viceroy LI has given orders that in consequence of the scarcity at Tientsin, six hundred thousand Press. piculs of wheat, that would otherwise have to pay duty, are to pass the barrier free. Probably this likin post is no worse than many others in Chius. but many merchants are accustamed to land their goods at a place ten miles below the city and transport them by cart overland, a distance of twenty miles, rather than pay the heavy charges and incur the inevitable delays.

Since the Chinese New Year came in robberies on the highways have well nigh ceased. The days are getting longer, and besides the robbers seem to think that it may be well to turn their thoughts to peaceful occupations while their heads are still safe on their shoulders. The three men who were captured in Isnuary are still in prison, dying slowly of thirst and starvation, the official being afraid of an attempt at rescue if he should take them out to publicly behead them.

Before dismissing the subject of rob beries, an incident that occurred some thirty miles to the north-east of here may be of interest as illustrating how one Chinese woman knew how to take case of herself and get out of a tight place with no little sclat. She was a middle-aged woman who had set out to go from one village to another on a visit, when she was overtaken by a robber on horseback, who called on her to halt and then entered into conversation. He told her that after this they would live together and that she was to regard herself as his wife. The woman said that she supposed there was no help for it, but added that If she was to travel along with the robber, would be well for him to treat her as his wife or otherwise people would be sure to make remarks. "How will it look," said she, "for you to be riding a good horse and I be trudging behind on foot? People are sure to talk about us if we go together in that way." The robber thought this was good common sense so be helped the woman on the horse behind him. They had not ridden for before the woman dropped one of the silver ornaments out of her bair. "There," said she, "goes one of my omaments. Stops moment and I'll get down and pick it up." The robber looked and concluding that it would be easier for him to dismount, he accordingly did so, when the woman whipped up the horse; and silecceded in cetting away salely. The place de that were put out with the probable intention of breaking up the boys school proved a success, the number of pupils in the school this year being about double what it was

As was natural to expeds, his health has groutly improved from a change which has been sadly needed for the last six months.

The Slamese, we learn, have mounted the guns of the Siam Mongkut on the new for recently constructed at Pakiat while awaiting the new guns ordered in Europe, and now on their way out. They ought now to obtain the services of some one who can load and fire them when I mou led, and take care that the cartridges will fit before the next crisis.

We are requested by Captain Jackson to contradict the ridiculous statement made in a local paper that he has received 2,400 france from the Indemplty paid to the French Government. The facts are simply as follows : - The Messageries Fluviales wished to compensate such of the ? B. Say's crew as had been ill-treated by the Siamese on July 13th. As Captain Jackson was pilot and had lost his property, in addition to suffering some ill-treatment, he was offered compensation, but as the sum, whatever it was, alleged to have been pold him, was not accompanied by any document the money was promptly refused. and returned to Snigon by the Schwalbe. - Free

THREE FORTUNATE WOMEN.

WE will introduce you to the cidest one first. Her name is Mrs. Jessie Russell, and she lives near the city of New York, in America. She was born in Londoniin 1787, and is therefore 105 years old. Sh remembers many incidents of her childhood, and still has traces of former boauty. Her eves are bright, and become animated when she talks. She retains her mental faculties completely. She descends two flights of stairs to every meal, and returns without assistance. Up to three years ago she was a regular attendant at the Greenwood Baptist Church. Her sight is excellent, and she reads the newspapers every day, and takes great interest in the news from England. She has never had any severe illness, in her life, and har appetite and digestion are almost as good as they were flity years ago.

The second woman says: "Ever since I was a child I have suffered from illness. Thirteen years ago a tired, languid, and heavy feeling came over me. The whites of my eyes became tinged with yellow, my skin was sallow, and hands and feet were cold and clammy. My mouth tasted badly, especially in the morning, and I was often sick, vomiting a sour, frothy fluid. had a main in the obest and sides, heartburn, and flatulency. For four years I suffered like this, and I shall be glad to recommend the medicine that finally cured ma." (Signed) (Mrs.) FRANCES EMILY SMITH, 491, Woodhouse Street, Leeds, January 25th, 1893;

The third woman save: "I have been delicate all my life. For the past six years I have always felt tired languid, and weak. I had a poor appetite, a bad taste in the mouth, and pain after every morsel I sta. I was dissy, and often falt as if I was going to fall. I always felt sick, and would rotch and strain but could bring nothing up. There was a dull pain at the right side and a dreadful pain between the shoulders. I never knew what it was to be well. After being on my feet for a time my legs would swell very much. No doctor was able to help me, nor any medicine; that is, up to the time I took the one which gave me my health back. I never felt so well in my life as I do now." (Signed) (Mrs.) SARAH SHARMAR, Glinton, near Market Deeping, February

Why do we put these three women in a group—the one venestis women in America and the two others here in England? They are perfect strangers to one unother and always will be. We do it to show how long and happily a woman may live if she only bappens to escape the malady that everywhere threatens her sex; and also to show that those that the missionaries here had opened, have not have been burdened and cursed with it may be pured and once more taste the joys of health.

Mrs. Smith concludes her letter in these words: After taking three bottles of Mother Seigel's Curative From Heinchen, a market town on the Wel Syrup all pain and siekness left me, and I knew no iver, not far from Weihui-fu, there comes the more of the aliment that had troubled me so long, indigestion and dyspecsis. I know others who have eaten one child, and killed one man but left him been benefited by the Syrup. All sufferers should use

Mrs. Sharman adds that after she had doctored and doctored and taken everything, almost without getting any good from it, Mr. Webster, a grocer of Glinton, mid, "Why don't you use. Mother Beigel's Curative Syrup?" She acted on his suggestion, and health wasn't long in coming. "I cannot speak too highly of Selgel's Hyrup," she says. We should agree with her in that opinion, for a remedy that will in a few weeks put an end to a case of chronic indigaction and dyspecials is certainly worth a good word or two. Now here you have these three Englishwomen-one so fortunate as to have lived more than a century without an illness; the others (still more fortunate) have known the sadness of suffering and the pleasure
